“ Horace Lamar (Joe) Branham and I grew up together. Even though he was my uncle he seemed more like a brother to me. He was only six months older than me. We went to school together, we worked in the fields together in the afternoon after school picking cotton, etc. along with other cousins and family. We had so much fun doing the simple things. I remember one time when Joe threw a green cotton bowl and hit Laman Goodwin in the head. it almost knocked him out , but when we realized that Laman was ok, that Branham sense of humor came out and we all had a big laugh about it. Of course, it wasn"t quite so funny when Grandpa Herbert found out about it. We still shared a close relationship as adults and I surely will miss him tremendously. I pray that his family will be blessed with the knowledge that they will see him again in the hereafter and they can live together. May the blessings of Heaven be upon all of them for comfort and peace as they say goodbye to Joe until they will meet again. I love all of you and I pray for each of you daily. Please take comfort in knowing he is not suffering any longer and is safely reunited with loved ones who have gone before him.
