“ Jess has been apart of my family for 4 years, her and my daddy's relationship showed me what true love is. Someone who is willing to do anything for you and never leave your side when you are at your worst. Jess had such a beautiful soul and a smile that could light up any room she entered. We stayed up countless nights until 3 am just sitting in the car listening to music and talking. The conversation of one of us leaving, was brought up one night when jess had just started her chemo and she looked at me and said when i do go remember i will always be right there with you and everyone else. She told me to stay close to her babies and to keep her spirit alive. That is what i will do today, tomorrow, and forever. It will never be a goodbye just a see you later

“ She was my best friend, my soul sister, my “person”. We have been best friends for over 26 years. Where you saw me, you saw her and the other way around! There are no words to express the connection we had. We always joked about how we would raise hell in the nursing home together, all wrinkly and old! I’ll never get to experience that with her but I will never forget anything about her. Her contagious laugh, her strength, her awesome attitude when mine was in the dumps, the way she could legit light up a room with the laugh and smile she shared with everyone, the amazing mother she was, because she loved her kids to no end, the way she was always there when I needed a shoulder to lean on or a person to yell at just to get my anger out and know there would never be judgement, the way she looked at me the day I married my best friend, the way she loved my kids and I could go on and on. I will forever miss her but I will never let her memory die. NEVER! I will forever miss you Jess! I love you and I gained one hell of an angel. I love you always, love khloe, aka courtney!

“ She was my best friend. You know the type that knows everything about your life, that's how we were! We always talked to each other throughout the day every day! I'm at loss without her here! This is a hard pill to swallow! Her smile and laugh would bring so much joy to the room. She was such a wild spirit and no one would want her any other way. I miss her so much!

“ Jessica is a person who is unforgettable with a huge smile and contagious laugh. I'll always cherish the friendship we had. Even though I only knew her a few years we shared alot of fun moments together and we could talk for hours. I truly love and will miss her. Sending out my deepest condolences to her family and sweet children
